

TH56M Fingerprint Lever Lock

TH56M

Product Overview

The TH56M Lever Lock seamlessly integrates advanced security features with a sleek lever design. It offers multiple access options, including fingerprint recognition and password entry, ensuring both convenience and robust protection. Additionally, the built-in video doorbell function allows you to view and communicate with visitors directly through the lock's internal screen, enhancing home security and user experience.

Key Features

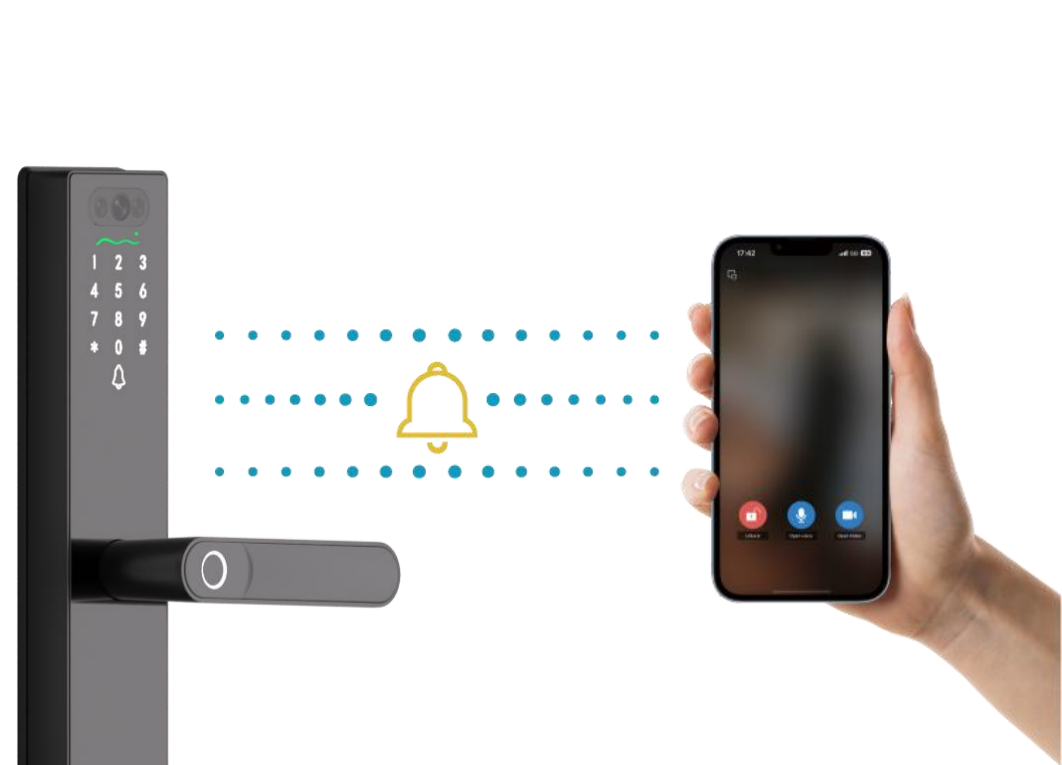

Fingerprint Recognition

Combines semiconductor technology with AI to learn and recognize unique fingerprint features, adapting to variations for accurate unlocking.

Video Doorbell

The Video Doorbell feature enables real-time video streaming and two-way audio communication directly through the lock's internal screen, enhancing security and convenience without the need for additional devices.

Decoy Password Feature

Allows random digits before or after the real password to prevent prying, enhancing password security.

Anti-Pulse Attack

Utilizes electromagnetic shielding and detection technologies to resist strong electromagnetic interference, ensuring stable operation.

Local alarm

Locks the device and triggers an alarm after multiple failed attempts, preventing brute-force attacks and enhancing security.
